Allergy Statement

Where possible we will always aim to provide customers who have allergy requirements a suitable alternative to the menu. In many cases this can be achieved through the product, however due to the nature of our production and service we cannot guarantee an allergy free environment. Our kitchen handles a range of allergens, so whilst we can achieve a product which may be allergen free, it may still be cooked in an environment where there is a possibility of cross contamination. Please also note that we use shared scoops and utensils between flavours, which means cross-contamination can occur at the point of service.

If you have an allergy or dietary concern, please speak to a member of our team before ordering — we're always happy to help.
